For the prevention and cure o
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended

HAHN's ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor s feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of person can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Fan-Sash Making

METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke street. The want of a Metal Fan-Sash Manufactory in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither elegant nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expence in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.

Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as if in town.

Dr. Thomson's System of Chemistry.

IN FOUR VOLUMES OCTAVO.

THE preceding edition of Dr. Thomson's Chemistry, had acquired so much reputation both in England and upon the continent of Europe that a new edition, comprising the new facts with which the science had been enriched, and the new views of the subject which extended knowledge had suggested as indispensable, was eagerly looked for by the scientific world. A new edition has accordingly appeared, wherein the former edition of five volumes has been condensed into four.

All the new discoveries, and all the new theories of Chemical Phenomena, have been considered and embraced in the present improved edition, so that it is indispensable to the chemical student, as presenting the only condensed view of the changes and alterations in chemical doctrine, which the discoveries of the last ten years have suggested. No apology therefore can be necessary for reprinting such a book in this country; for the press does not furnish a substitute for it. But, there is so much theoretical suggestion—so much abstruse calculation—so much fact of dubious authority—and so much dubious validity—that notes and illustrations are absolutely necessary, not merely to render the book more useful, but more intelligible.

Under these impressions, I thought fit to write notes in illustration (and sometimes in contradiction) of the work itself, rather than to make any abridgement of it. Those who wish to know the modern views of chemical science, must peruse it; and to very many who will be anxious to study it elucidation will be necessary. I have endeavoured to supply these, to the best of my ability; regardless whether my own opinions are in dissonance or coincidence with those of my author; leaving to the reader to decide between us,

The work will be published, with notes and illustrations, in four volumes 8vo.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
AND DAILY ADVERTISER.

PUBLISHED BY
SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.

Daily Gazette $7...Country Gazette $5.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1818.

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.

A friend handed me the following account of the Heligoland bean. I am induced to make it public for the benefit of those who have possessed themselves of some of this valuable article. They appear peculiarly calculated for the northern states, and I have no doubt will prove an advantageous substitute for corn, where frost is apt to injure that crop. A small quantity has been sent for the benefit of the Agricultural Society, by Mr. Robert Barclay of London, they arrived a few weeks past, and have been distributed in various parts of the state.

R. B.

The merits of those beans consist in their extraordinary prolific quality, their perfect fullness of form, and thinness of skin, and in their ripening much sooner than the common sorts—they are short in the straw, and the pods, which grow in bunches, commence very near the ground. They will succeed on soils not considered stiff enough for the common beans and have produced generally, without extra manure, from 64 to 80 bushels per acre. At the annual meeting of the Agricultural Society, of Wiltshire, held at Devizes, July 20, 1814—Mr. Phillips produced two stalks which had on them 142 pods, yielding 460 beans. In the spring of 1813, Mr. Phillips planted a bushel and a half of these beans, in half an acre of land, (a poor clay,) at one ploughing, without manure, and they produced the astonishing quantity of fifty-two bushels and a half Winchester measure.

Several stalks of these beans were produced, and the committee declared them to be infinitely superior in point of productiveness and quality, to any other sort ever introduced into the country, and felt it their duty to recommend them not only to their own members, but to the public at large, who they were certain would derive great benefit from their introduction.'

In addition to the foregoing, the following account of the Talavera spring wheat, a sample of which accompanied the beans to this country, may not be un interesting.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in England to his frend, dated Jan. 1817

I shall send you a sample of wheat I am threshing, with some of the straw—my crop last year, one acre with another, was 33 bushels per acre. I have often thought it is a sort that might not be liable to the destructive ravages of the Hessian Fly, because the straw is full of pith, and not hollow like the common wheat straw; it is certainly not so liable to be beaten down nor so subject to smut or mildew, and it is much more productive than any other species of wheat we have here.

It is a much applauded saying of Dean Swift, that he who discovers how to make two spires of grass grow where only one grew before, is entitled to more real glory than the greatest of heroes. For the same reason it may be said, that he who introduces into a country a new species of nutritious cattle food of more than four times the value of any hitherto cultivated in that country, merits the lasting gratitude of every man in it. The public, more particularly that part to whom the following article is addressed, and to whom it will find its way through the medium of our country paper, will thankfully receive it, and, we presume will, without delay, avail themselves of the information it so liberally communicates.

N. Y. Evening Post.

TO FARMERS AND GARDENERS.

When I published, some time ago, my account of the crops of Ruta Baga, or Russia, or Swedish turnip, I was by no means aware, that I was exposing myself to any species of criticism; much less did I imagine, that I was in the way to incur the charge of being a pretender to any merit at all, and still less of a merit to which I had no claim. Two gentlemen, Mr. Lewis and another who signs himself Q. have, however, given written and published proof, that they look upon me as having put forward a claim to the introduction of this valuable root, though I had so fully spoken of the use to which I found it put in America, and though I had expressly said, that it was cultivated here under the name of Russia turnip.

No—it was not the root that I expressed my hope to introduce—it was the cultivation of it upon a large scale, and as cattle-food; and in this way the root has not yet been introduced. Mr. Q says, that Ruta Baga seed was brought into Pennsylvania by Mr. Bordley 25 years ago, and distributed by him. Very likely—he was a public spirited man. This I know, however, that last winter, I could find no Pennsylvania farmer that knew it even by name, though two of the many that I talked with had a few miserable roots of it in their gardens. I have gone another way to work. I have raised about a hundred Long Island wagon-loads of this root, and have sent about 50 wagon-loads to New York market, and have sold the whole at an average of half a dollar a bushel, rather dearer, bushel for bushel, than corn in the ear. And this has been the produce of seven acres of land, the poorest in this neighborhood! I change two bushels and a half of turnips for a bushel of apples in May. I truck turnips for corn in the ear at par. How soon I should, at this rate sweep into my pocket the produce of the orchards and the corn-fields! Can there be any better proof than this, that the culture of the root has not yet been introduced? If I were a greedy man, and could have my wish, I should need, in order to make me an enormous fortune, nothing but to insure the culture of this root to remain, for five years, no more extensive than it was in 1817. If I had been a cunning fellow, I should have kept my own counsel, and not cried 'roast meat.' I might have had nearly a monopoly for another year. This has not been my course. Seein, in September, how the root flourished, I sent home (for my home England is and always will be) for some seed for myself, and for some also to sell, in order that others might share with me in the advantages attending this culture. This seed I now sell, and I sell it in the market at the common price, though I understand that a man whom I first sent to market with my turnips, sold for eighteen pence a thimble full of seed, which he said, was of the same sort as that which produced my roots. This same man, I am informed, sold one of my large turnips, which has served a New York store-keeper as a sign for the sale of his Russia turnip seed! This gentleman's seed may be as good as mine—but at any rate those facts prove, that there was something extraordinary in my crop, and that the culture had not been fairly introduced into this country.

Mr. Q. begs, that when I go home, at the use of which word he appears displeased. I will not, in the account of my 'travels,' put in any claim to this work of introduction. He may be assured, that I shall never say of America that which I am not ready to say to her face; and, indeed, that I will not publish any thing about this country (if a sudden departure does not make previous publication here impossible,) that I do not publish here before my leaving the country. Indeed, a part of these 'travels,' to use his own word, is now in the press at New York, and will be published in a very few days. In giving an account of my mode of culture, it struck me, that I ought to begin with an account of the climate and soil. This led me to look into my daily notes. This looking led me to suppose, that the daily account of a year's residence here might be very useful in England. Out of these thoughts a little book was easily engendered; and therefore, if Mr. Q. has a mind to know what I shall say about America after I get home, he may be gratified beforehand at a very trifling expense.

Mr. Q speaks of the value of the Ruta Baga, compared with that of the Potatoe, and reminds the public of my having written in disparagement of the latter, while I was in England. I then spoke of it as compared with wheat, as food for men; and though I have been much abused for my opinions, I have never been answered. If Mr Q. recollects what I wrote, let him answer it, if he do not, he will do well to let that matter rest. But as food for cattle, what is the state of the case? Few men can raise three hundred bushels of potatoes upon an acre; Mr. Lewis says that he raised, last year, eight hundred of Ruta Baga upon three quarters of an acre. The potatoe requires much land, must be a month longer in the ground, than the Ruta Baga, costs ten times as much for seed, requires four times the expense in harvesting and preserving, and is exposed to many risks which the Ruta Baga is not. But the value, the quality, the comparative goodness and efficiency; what are these?—We men have our prejudices and our politics. We are apt to suffer our opinions on one subject to run in and mix themselves with our opinions on other subjects. Let us therefore appeal to the ox and the hog, who besides being endowed with the best faculties for judging, have no interest in deciding contrary to truth. Let then any man take a good Russia turnip, give it a chop with a spade, and toss it down with a gallon of potatoes before an ox, a hog, or a sheep, (it must be clean for a sheep) and if the animal touches a potatoe until he has eaten up every morcel of the Russia turnip, I will allow that the potatoe is the best; but it will be what I have never seen, and what I am convinced, no man living ever saw. I know that the finest oxen are fatted in England wholly upon Russia turnip; and I have seen them starve upon potatoes.—A neighbour of mine attempted to fat upon potatoes. He was obliged to desist. His oxen lost flesh daily; and he resorted to the Russia turnip. The duke of Richmond, (the best of good farmers,) made the trial with all possible care:—His oxen became poor, their legs swelled, and he was compelled to give up the attempt. In short, an ox cannot be fatted upon potatoes, while it is notorious, that thousands upon thousands are yearly made as fat as they can walk upon the Ruta Baga, without any hay, or corn, or grain of any sort. Hogs will, rather than die with hunger, eat raw potatoes; but did any man ever see them thrive on that root, in its raw state? Cooked, hogs will thrive upon them; but not as they will upon Ruta Baga, which if steamed, will make a good hog really fat and solid.

Mr. Q talks as if I had desired corn: or as if I had pretended that Ruta Baga was equal to corn, bushel for bushel.—What nonsense! No, I know well, that there is nothing equal to corn, as cattle-food; but, surely, I may believe, that a crop of Ruta Baga is better than a crop of corn, if the former will yield eight hundred bushels with less expense than the latter will yield forty bushels.

My poor harmless hogs could not escape Mr. Q. who does not want any better sort of this animal than he already sees in Pennsylvania. He has, then, the virtue of content in a supreme degree; for, though I saw hundreds upon hundreds throughout the finest part of Pennsylvania, I solemnly declare, that if I projected a settlement in this country, and could get no supply from "home," I would not, for all those hundreds, exchange nine hogs that I now have, and seven out of the nine are but young pigs. Prejudice is often too strong for reason and justice; but it seldom overcomes interest, when the latter is very manifest. The hogs of Long-Island are white; mine are black as a coal; and unless I am very much deceived, there will not in a few years, be many white hogs upon this island. If I should remain in America till I have any considerable number of pigs, I shall sell them, or some of them, if any body choose to buy them, alive, at the market price of the day. I want to possess no monopoly, nor any advantage over my neighbors.

In the little book, abovementioned, I have given an account of these hogs of mine. If I remain here for eight or nine months longer, (and I may, perhaps, for a year or more) I will send one of them to New York, and then Mr. Q. may, if he pleases, satisfy himself to a certainty, whether it be not possible to change the breed of Pennsylvania for something better.

WM. DEVAUGHN.

Alexandria, June 6, 1818.

"Tell me what company you keep and I will tell you what you are," is like every other saw founded in truth, & practical good sense, the fruits of wisdom and experience. Mr Locke speaking of the great advantages of conversation, says, "There are scarce any two men who have perfectly the same views of the same thing, till they come with attention and perhaps with mutual assistance, to examine it; a consideration that makes conversation with the living, a thing much more desirable than consulting the dead, would the living but be inquisitive after truth, apply their thoughts with attention to the gaining of it—and be indifferent where it was found, so they could but find it."

Astonished and inconsiderate auditors have often said that they could not have believed, if they had not witnessed, the never failing elegance and correctness of the late Mr. Pitt's language; so that the reporters who attended the house of commons have uniformly declared that in many years, during which they diligently attended him for the purposes of their profession, they never once heard him pause for a moment to think of a word, never even in the whirlwind of his eloquence, make a slip or a mistake—never use one word or phrase that was not select, apt, and the most elegant that could be formed—never in a single instance violate the most precise rules of speech—never utter a vulgarism—never trench upon an absurdity. But those who regarded this with wonder, would have thought more philosophically if they had asked themselves how it was possible for him to speak otherwise—how or where he could learn any other language. Closeted up in training, with his illustrious sire, and exclusively habituated to the company of those who spoke no other than the language of elegance and erudition, he must have been inspired, and drawn his inspiration from below, if he could, though he were willing, utter the words of vulgarity or low life. Here then we have an admirable lesson for parents and for youths too, if they had the wisdom to understand, or the grace to follow it—in short the most powerful dissuasive imaginable from keeping bad company.

We ourselves are personally intimate with a gentleman who passes with the world for a man of very considerable erudition, and upon reasonable grounds too; for he writes with fluency, and can pour forth, both on paper and in conversation, a great deal of interesting matter, replete with knowledge and in eloquent language. He can quote too, illustrate, and draw embellishments from the classics, poets, and moralists, in such sort as to be frequently complimented upon the extent of his learning and the diligence of his study: but these compliments he always, to his bosom friends, candidly declines; avowing that he has not been a great reader; but that in the earlier part of his life he had the advantage of keeping good company, and consorting only with gentlemen, not your rich knaves, nor new-made men—but GENTLEMEN in the virtual sense of the term, and excellent scholars.

CONFIRMATION OF THE DEATH OF GEN. MORILLO.

Kingston, Jam. May 10.

"I have only time to write you the following important notice.

"By the arrival here yesterday, or rather at Port Royal, of H. B. M. brig Rifleman, captain Duff, from St. Martha, the news of the death of the blood thirsty tyrant and Spanish General, Don PABLO MORILLO, from his wounds, is confirmed. The heroic defenders of liberty, and the cause of humanity and justice, have reason to celebrate the demise of such a cruel and barbarous warrior; one, who having made a dear bought conquest of Carthagena, marched without opposition, I may say, (on account of the apathy and inconstancy of the Directors) of the unfortunate people of the kingdom, a people heartily disposed to fight in defence of the glorious cause they were embarked in, but owing to the duplicity and fear of their leaders, were taught to abandon their arms, or submit without resistance to the handful of old Spaniards, and some few indigent Creole soldiers, sent to subjugate them to the capital of the Kingdom St Fe de Bogata, where in imitation of the lawful sovereign resorted to in Carthagena, he filled with terror and gloom the capital of Cundinamarca, where, for a time, nought but the expiring groans of her patriot sons were heard to rend the air, victims to the rapacity and hostile inclemency of a despot's supreme will.

"Columbia of the South, rejoice at the fall of the Spanish Coriphoeus, and the last hope of Ferdinand the 7th, in this part of South America. Behold! the champion of this despot's tottering domain, has terminated his sanguinary career; but Trump of Fame will announce to every the land the glorious achievements and imperishable honors due to the constancy and bravery of Venezuela's intrepid heroes, who, though sometimes overtaken by the dark midnight shades of adversity, are as regular and fixed as the return of a morning's bright Sun, to renew their struggles with tenfold valor and energy, in the field of Mars, and with the relics of their republican band, conduct in triumph the Banners of Independence to the most distant parts of their territory, and relieve thousands of their fellow-compatriots from slavery's clanking chains.

"Yes, the companion of Wellington droops his head, and Venezuela's plains receive the remains of many a Spanish Chieftain, the eternal monuments of her fidelity and perseverance for the support of her singular dignity and felicity, her perpetual Liberty and Independence."

MARRIED,

James Kennedy & Son,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE's MEDICINE STORE, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced steze of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of blood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
